PREFACE.

THIS Volume, the eighty-fourth of the Zoological Record, deals mainly with the publications of 1947. It includes also those which, for various reasons, were not recorded in previous volumes.

Articles and books which have not yet reached this country, but concerning which knowledge has been obtained from other sources, are recorded as far as the information permits. They will, if necessary, be dealt with more fully when they can be seen by the Recorders.

MALCOLM SMITH,
Editor.

Papers and Memoirs intended for the Zoological Record should be addressed to The Editor, c/o British Museum (Natural History), Cromwell Road, London, S.W.7.

I. Comprehensive Zoology

ARRANGED BY

LT.-COL. W. P. C. TENISON, D.S.O.

This section includes works that deal with more than one branch of Zoology, or that are of general interest to Zoologists. It is, therefore, not complete in itself as regards any one subject included in it. The special records complete each subject. A few memoirs included in the special records are repeated in this division. No attempt is made to include all works on Genetics or Physiology as these subjects are more suitably covered by the Imperial Bureau of Animal Genetics, Resumptio Genetica or Physiological Abstracts.

III.—SYSTEMATIC INDEX

N.B.—FULL REFERENCES ARE GIVEN ONLY IN THE CASE OF A NEW GENUS, SPECIES OR VARIETY. IN OTHER CASES THE NUMBER IN "Large Bold Clarendon" REFERS TO THE LIST OF TITLES WHERE THE FULL REFERENCE WILL BE FOUND. WHERE THE REFERENCE IS GIVEN IN THE SYSTEMATIC PART, THE VOLUME NUMBER IS PRINTED IN Smaller Clarendon.

Note.—The arrangement here used follows in general that of Thiele's Handbuch. The most important differences are that Epitoniacea and Pyramidellacea are placed immediately preceding Muricacea in order of grouping and the families Triviidae and Eratoidae are placed in Lamellariacea.

Where more than one page is given in a reference, the one in roman type is where a new name is first mentioned and the one in italic is where the gen. sp. or var. is actually described.

STRUCTURE

Cephalon.—Terminology of extant names of structures discussed and attempted standardization for Cambrian descriptions—the term "brim" is preferred for area between marginal furrow, front end of glabella and ocular ridges and bounded laterally by facial sutures (detailed definition given for this and other terms) ; the term "fixed cheek" is restricted in usage, HOWELL ET ALIOS 23.

Cranidium.—Diagnostic generic features in Lower Cambrian genera excluding Olenellids :—

1. Length (or size) of palpebral lobe and position of its midpoint compared with that of glabella.

2. (a) Basic "shape and convexity" of glabella. (b) Presence or absence of glabellar furrows, their number and direction.

3. Proportional width of free-cheeks to glabella measured "on a line through their respective mid-points."

4. Position of the fixed cheeks with reference to a horizontal plane through the dorsal furrow (a) elevated or more above (b) upsloping 20° ± above (c) horizontal (d) downsloping 20° ± below (e) depressed 45° below.

5. Width and length of postero lateral limb, width related to side of glabella and length to that of occipital ring.

6. General structure of pre-glabellar area.

Stated that "a definite recognisable variation in any one of these features constitutes a valid generic distinction."

Diagnostic specific features in Lower Cambrian genera :—

1. Variations in width, convexity and slope of frontal limb and in frontal border and in depth ,width and direction of the marginal furrow.

2. Minor variations in convexity, width and length of glabella.

3. Minor variations in width and convexity of fixed cheeks.

4. Presence and size of occipital spine or node.

Character 4 is considered of doubtful specific validity and any of other characters should be constant in five or more limestone preserved specimens, LOCHMAN 31.

Hypostome.—Various hypostomes of some Otarionid and Proetid genera figured in ventral and lateral views, PŘIBYL 48.

Fixed cheek. — Terminology — for Cambrian trilobites, defined as "the area lying back of the ocular ridge and anterior to an imaginary line extending from the posterior end of the eye diagonally backward to the junction of the dorsal and occipital furrow," it is bounded posteriorly by the "posterior limb," HOWELL ET ALIOS 23.

Pygidium.—diagnostic generic features in Lower Cambrian genera excluding Olenellids :—

1. Outline (shape) and convexity of shield, presence and character of marginal spine.

2. (a) Proportion of pleural to axial lobe (measured along anterior margin) (b) Presence or absence of marginal furrow. (c) Basic character of marginal border.

3. Structure of axial and pleural lobes.

Diagnostic specific characters :—

1. Variations in direction and size of marginal spine.

2. Minor variations in strength and width of marginal furrow or border.

3. Presence or absence, number and arrangement of spines or nodes on the axial and pleural lobes.

4. Variations in number and strength of "segments" on axial and pleural lobes.

Feature 1 sometimes of generic value, LOCHMAN 31.

Terminology of extant names of structures discussed and attempted standardization for Cambrian trilobite descriptions—

"Pleural platform" = "roughly triangular lateral part of the pygidium, bounded on the inside by the dorsal furrow and on the outside by the marginal furrow";

"Interpleural groove," "pleural furrow" defined, HOWELL ET ALIOS 23.

Ornamentation of "test."—Discussed for Lower Cambrian genera and types observable on outer and inner surfaces listed, LOCHMAN 31.

Musculature.—Supposed muscle scars as depressions on internal surface of glabella in three species of Illaenus not perfectly symmetrical, have nothing in common with such seen in other genera which have been interpreted as oesophageal nor do they appear to show correlation with appendages, SINCLAIR 56.

Teratology.—Some of trilobite literature summarised and examples of a repaired injured brim in Harpes and of a genal spine in Ceraurus photographed and discussed, SINCLAIR 55; Glabellar structures in several species of Crotalocephalus described as due to damage in earlier growth stages and subsequent healing as described by Richter in 1934 in pygidia of Scutellum, PRANTL 40; Suggested that the occasional impressed nature of muscle scars on under-side of Illaenid glabella-test may be pathological, SINCLAIR 56.

Restoration.—New reconstruction of Teratastpis, REIMANN 51.

PHYSIOLOGY

Blindness.—Eyeless and eye-bearing Eodiscidae both exist in Lower Cambrian and it is not possible to affirm which are most primitive, RASETTI 50.

Length measurements.—Of large Trilobites quoted : Paradoxides imperialis Barrande 40 cm.; Dalmanites perceensis Clarke from Devonian of Canada 64 cms.; Isotelus giganteus Raymond from Ordovician of U.S.A. 67 cm.; Uralichas ribeiroi Delgado from Ordovician of Portugal 70 cm.; largest known Argentine trilobite is Basilicoides taurinus from Ordovician which is 20 cm., HARRINGTON 22.

DEVELOPMENT

Developmental History. — Development of the Lower Cambrian Ptychoparia szechuanensis from early protaspis 0·4 mm. in length to adult 8·7 mm. in length, LU 33.

Teratology. — Morphological equilibrium restored during growth after injury to glabella in several species of Crotalocephalus, PRANTL 40.

CLASSIFICATION AND EVOLUTION

Taxonomy.—In Proetidae where the distinctive characters are limited to the pygidium, genera are converted into subgenera, WEBER 72.

Classification. — Attempted rationalized analysis of diagnostic generic and specific characters of non-Olenellid Lower Cambrian genera and species, eleven genera revised and two new genera described, LOCHMAN 31 ; Ceratopygidae discussed and revised, WESTERGÅRD 74 ; Cheiruridae classified into five subfamilies one of which is noted, one new genus and several new subgenera defined, PRANTL & PŘIBYL 42 ; Encrinuridae new subfamily, PRANTL & PŘIBYL 42 ; Otarionidae divided into three subfamilies, PŘIBYL 48 ; Proetidae four new genera and two new subgenera, PŘIBYL 44 ; Proetidae Czechoslovakian representatives classed into five subfamilies, PŘIBYL 45; Proetidae, WEBER 72 ; Scutellidae of Czechoslovakia, PRANTL & PŘIBYL 41.

Terminology of parts. — Detailed recommendations for uniform usage in description of Cambrian Trilobites, HOWELL ET ALIOS 23 ; Pygidium—the term " pigaxis " [anglice pygaxis] used for axial lobe, HARRINGTON 22.

Evolutionary trends.—Since facially sutured and facially sutureless Eodiscidae both occur in Lower Cambrian impossible to affirm which of the two conditions is the most primitive, RASETTI 50 ; In Proetid cephalon (1) basal lobes become differentiated from glabella, progressively in the suite, Phillipsia, Griffithides, Cyphinium ; (2) inflation of frontal lobe and enlargement of basal lobes causes two pairs of glabellar furrows to come together in the suite Cyphinium, Neogriffithides and Anisopyge ; (3) separation of glabella from occipital ring in the suite Cyphinium, Anisopyge and Pseudophillipsia. Trends in Proetid pygidium (1) increase in axial segmentation reaches its maximum in Permian Pseudophillipsia and Anisopyge so that rachis overhangs limb posteriorly and downwards ; (2) reduction in segmentation exemplified in Carboniferous by Griffithides grünewaldti continues in the Permian Neoproetus and Permoproetus—this is considered to be regression, WEBER 72.

Homoeomorphy.—Cephalic resemblance between Sphaerexochinae and Cyrtometopinae possibly due to heterochronous homoeomorphy, PRANTL & PŘIBYL 42 ; Pygidium of the Silurian Encrinurus homoeomorphed by a Permian Pseudophillipsia (Anisopyge) ? WEBER 72.

Geronticism.—Gerontic structures described in glabella of various species of Crotalocephalus, considered as regressive mutations in sense of Karny (1925), PRANTL 40 ; Pseudophillipsia contraction of glabella from occipital ring compared with a pathological condition, WEBER 72.
